

Pam Williamson, Governor profile

My connection with the schools started in 1985, when the first of my two children became a pupil.

Following Burnham Copse Infant School's headteacher asking for parent governors I applied and was elected as a parent governor. I have remained a governor since that date both as a parent and a Local Education Authority governor, acting as Vice Chair and Chairman for various periods. For a period I was also governor of the Junior School, have been a member of the Temporary Governing Body (following the decision to amalgamate the Infant & Junior School due to the falling role) and am now a member of the Burnham Copse Primary School Governing Body. I have the responsibility of being the Chair of the Resources Committee (which covers financial and personnel matters) with Mike Christmas as the Vice Chair. Having been a governor for some years I do bring considerable experience to the team and I believe the mix of 'old' and new governors on the present committee is a good one.

Whilst my children were at the school I was on the PTA committee and thoroughly enjoyed my involvement in the summer fair and other fundraising events.

I work for the NHS as a Business Support Team Manager for the Maternal and Child Health Division of the Basingstoke and North Hampshire Foundation Trust, which includes managing a team of 25 administration staff in the Obstetrics and Gynecology, Sexual Health and Child Health departments. I am also a governor of the Foundation Trust having been elected as the staff governor for administration and managerial staff.

My children both attended university, one is now an assistant editor for Mills & Boon and the other is an engineering cost accountant working in Basingstoke.

In my private life I enjoy gardening, sport, reading, and traveling.
